How we built our site

<http://gmh-research.yale.edu/>

The screenshot displays the website for the Global Mental Health & HIV Prevention Research program at Yale University. The header is dark blue with the Yale University logo and a search bar. The navigation menu includes links for HOME, NEWS, MISSION, PEOPLE, WHERE WE WORK, and RESEARCH. The main content area features a large photograph of a young boy in a rural setting, holding a long wooden staff. Below the image is a paragraph describing the research program's focus on building knowledge and interventions to prevent HIV and facilitate care for people living with the virus. A second paragraph details the program's focus on the needs of newly HIV-diagnosed people, prevention and care for survivors of trauma, and the impact of mental health and substance use problems on HIV risk behaviors. To the right of the main text is a profile for Nathan Hansen, PhD, Director of the Mental Health and HIV Prevention Program at Yale University. Below the main text is a 'News' section with three articles: 'Website Goes Live!' (January 17, 2013), 'Liberian Stories' (September 17, 2012), and 'View from Ecuador' (August 7, 2012). A 'Contact Us' section provides the address of The Consultation Center at 389 Whitney Ave., New Haven, CT 06511, and the phone number (203)789-7645. The footer includes the Yale logo, copyright information for 2013, and social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, and YouTube.

Nathan Hansen, PhD
Nathan Hansen, PhD, is the Director of the Mental Health and HIV Prevention Program at Yale University.
A psychologist, Dr. Hansen is committed to reducing HIV-risk behavior by creating interventions to address mental health problems, especially those related to trauma. He is currently working in the US, Russia and Liberia with at-risk adolescents, recently diagnosed men who have sex with men, and HIV-positive survivors of childhood sexual abuse.
